Question 1

Dear Diary,

Today was a very exciting day because I solved a little mystery. It happened during recess. We were playing soccer, and then my friend Leo shouted. He looked sad because his blue sports watch was missing! He remembered wearing it just ten minutes before.

Leo and I went back to the playground. We looked everywhere: under the slides, near the water fountain, and even inside the basketball net. I felt disappointed because Leo was nearly crying.

Then, I thought about where he was standing when he kicked the ball really hard. I went to that spot on the grass. I looked closely, and guess what? I saw a little bit of blue poking out! The watch had flown off his wrist when he kicked the goal, and it was buried under a pile of dead leaves.

I shouted, "Leo, look!" When he saw it, he gave me the biggest hug. I felt so happy I could help him. I learned that day that even if a problem seems impossible, you just need to stop, think carefully, and look very, very closely.

Question 2

Dear Future Me,

I hope you are doing really well! I'm writing this letter to you from my Primary 6 classroom.

My biggest hope for you is that you still live in Hong Kong and that you work in a job where you can help people. Maybe you could be a teacher who helps young children learn to read, or maybe a scientist who invents new toys! Please remember that you love learning new things.

My main goal is for you to be a person who is always brave and always kind. I hope you will travel to a new country and try all the different foods. I also hope you still visit Grandma every Sunday.

Don't forget how much we loved drawing cartoons and reading books. Please be sure to spend time with your friends. You must stay happy and never give up. I am excited to meet you someday!

Love,

Your Primary School Self

Question 3The Floating Library Island

My dream place is an island that floats up in the sky, far above the clouds. It is called the Floating Library Island.

The whole island is covered in millions of colorful bookshelves. The buildings are shaped like open books, and the paths are smooth like paper. The air always smells like old paper and chocolate cookies. We can lie down on soft grass mats next to giant windows to read while looking at the clouds beneath us. People can only do quiet things here, like drawing, telling silent stories with their hands, and most importantly, reading any book they want, all day long! It feels special to me because it is the most peaceful place in the whole world, and you can learn absolutely everything there.
